Building Something Special

The skilled team at Get Decked bring decades of experience and a personalized approach to every project.

YOU DON'T BECOME DELAWARE'S BEST DECK BUILDER BY COINCIDENCE.

Just ask Mike Jerminski, owner and president of Get Decked, who has been strictly building custom decks year-round for nearly four decades and knows firsthand how important it is to connect with customers on both a professional and personal level.

"Homeowners today are highly educated in the process of choosing the perfect contractor," he says.

Thanks to a solid reputation for quality craftsmanship and excellent service built over Jerminski's 38 years in the industry, more and more of these educated customers are turning to Get Decked to make their backyard dreams come true.

And it's no wonder why so many trust Get Decked's highly skilled team. After all, the company has built custom decks in thousands of backyards throughout New Castle County in Delaware and Chester County in Pennsylvania. That level of proficiency certainly helps Get Decked stand out as leaders in the industry and has resulted in Jerminski often hearing customers refer to his team as a "well-oiled machine."

"Our crew has the knowledge and polished skills," he says. "We didn't write the book on building decks, but we sure have read it. And we work hard to apply all that we've learned over the years to each job."

That dedication to customer satisfaction and prideful work hasn't gone unnoticed. In fact, Get Decked has been voted Delaware's Best Deck Builder by House & Home for eight consecutive years.

It's quite an accomplishment for this family-owned company that continues to evolve with the times. The crew is now headed by Jerminski's two sons Michael and Jerry, both considered to be elite craftsmen who have followed in their father's footsteps by dedicating their lives to the decking industry. Also helping the company grow has been Get Decked's talented office crew led by Jerminski's wife Connie, who brings 20 years of her own deck-building experience to the job and is regarded for her extensive knowledge and unparalleled customer relations. Working alongside Connie is the very personable, smart and talented duo of Kayla Hughes and longtime secretary Loni Vlaeminck, who work behind the scenes to assure projects run smoothly. Their tireless efforts are a big reason why Jerminski credits these unsung heroes as being so valuable and essential to Get Decked's continued success.

"These women work very hard at coordinating the everyday challenges of the business and we are proud of the fact that when a customer contacts us, we have skilled people in the office that can answer any question regarding the deck building trade," he says.

That's not to say that Jerminski has taken a step back. In fact, he remains very much involved in all aspects of the business, from providing estimates to potential customers to working hands-on to assure a project's successful completion. You're even likely to find him working well into the evening in the company's shop cutting and getting ready for the next day's job.

It's all further evidence of Get Decked's personalized approach to customer satisfaction and continued ability to not only meet but also exceed a homeowner's expectations.

"Without a doubt, the biggest lesson we've learned over the course of nearly four decades in construction, is that it takes both honesty and trust by both the homeowner and contractor to make each and every job a success," Jerminski says. "Here at Get Decked, we never ask for any money upfront. We want to gain the customer's trust by doing exactly what we said at the time we were offered the privilege of earning their business."

Using only top-of-the-line materials and state-of-the-art tools, each one of Get Decked's projects are works of excellent craftsmanship and come backed with a very strong warranty. So for those considering adding a new deck to their outdoor living space, Jerminski and the Get Decked team are eager to make you another homeowner singing their praises.

"We treat our customers like family and the decks we have constructed years ago are just as important to us as the one we are currently working on. We pride ourselves on being all-inclusive so our customers won't have to worry about a thing and that is why we have stood the test of time," says Jerminski. "We all take it very much to heart and honestly love what we do. Let's plan your dream deck today and work together on making it a reality." H&H

SWIMMING IN STYLE

WITH THE RIGHT GUIDANCE, YOU COULD BE ENJOYING LIFE POOLSIDE FOR MANY YEARS TO COME.

BY PETER PROKO

Though it may be hard to recognize after the extremely mild winter we experienced here in the Northeast, spring is in the air. With the flowers in full bloom and the temperatures getting warmer and warmer by the day, we are all looking forward to spending increased time outdoors as we gear ourselves up for the sun-drenched days of summer that won't be far behind.

And while countless folks will enjoy tending to their landscaping or perhaps spending time enjoying a glass of wine on the back deck while watching the sun go down, many others will be eagerly awaiting the return of swim season and the chance to cool off by taking a dip in the pool.

It's no secret that pool ownership skyrocketed during the onset of the pandemic, with homeowners opting to create their own backyard resorts rather than travel on vacation. While the industry has seen that intense demand lessen somewhat, the fact is with each passing year, more and more people are looking to transform their outdoor living space into a staycation destination, and in many cases it all starts with the pool.

But there's a lot to consider and know about pool ownership, and if you're not fully prepared you could find yourself treading water as you desperately search for answers. Luckily, this region is full of skillful pool builders who can guide you through each step of the process, and in turn help make your visions of an outdoor oasis a reality.

We spoke to several industry experts to get some tips and advice on what you need to know to make a real splash this summer, no matter if you're considering a new pool for your yard or are simply looking for ways to enhance your current swimming experience.

SETTLING ON A STYLE

When it comes time to picking out a pool, the first place to start is deciding on what style is right for you between vinyl, fiberglass or concrete. Each one has their pros and cons—and price point for that matter—and what may be appealing to some may not necessarily be so for others.

Vinyl liners, which come in a variety of colors and styles, are by far the least expensive avenue to becoming a pool owner. As a result, vinyl pools remain popular and the advancements made in recent years have only increased their favorability in the marketplace.

But while the cost may be initially lower, depending on several contributing factors, the lifespan of a vinyl liner can vary dramatically and thus may need to be replaced more frequently. That could mean shelling out another $5,000-$6,000 periodically throughout the course of owning the pool.

"The cons of a vinyl pool is the liner is temporary. It could last 15 years or maybe five years," says Scott Payne, dubbed as the chief backyard fun specialist with Scott Payne Custom Pools. "At some point, what happens here in the Northeast with the freeze and thaw is that the liner is going to shift a little bit. And it's going to deteriorate [over time]. The sun's UV rays are going to degrade it and at some point you are going to have to replace it.”

Meanwhile, fiberglass pools come in pre-formed shells allowing for a quicker installation process than other styles, with many pools being able to be completed in a just a day's time as opposed to the much lengthier process to install a vinyl or concrete pool.

Derek Blasker, president of (Fiberglass) Pool Designs, says the lifetime structural warranties and relatively low upkeep make fiberglass pools an attractive option for many.

“With a vinyl liner pool, you will always have the concern that you could tear the liner or the liner rots within five to 10 years. With concrete, you need to acid wash, paint, patch and resurface the masonry work. This usually runs at least $15,000 over a 10-year span. With the Latham fiberglass pools we install, you do not touch the surface,” he says.

Blasker adds that fiberglass pools are a natural insulator, reducing the energy costs to heat and maintain the pool.

Jon Wilson, director of operations at Ordini's Best Fiberglass Pools, also touts the benefits. “Fiberglass pools are installed in one day, while vinyl and concrete pools can take weeks or months to build. The smooth gelcoat finish of our fiberglass pools are much easier to clean than the rough, porous surface of concrete pools.”

With regard to concrete or gunite pools, while they are the most expensive choice for pool owners, they also offer the most customizable options in terms of freeform shapes and added amenities.

“With concrete pools, you can really go from mild to wild in terms of shape. And you could add sundecks, spas, loveseats; it's really only limited to your imagination,” says Payne.

Speaking of shapes, the rumors of the death of rectangular pools have been greatly exaggerated, according to Andrew McFarlane, president and owner of California Pools Philadelphia.

“I thought [rectangular pools] were kind of a dead thing, but a lot of our higher-end customers are bringing them back,” McFarlane says.

Payne has also seen an uptick in rectangular pools making a strong comeback, saying it's a matter of history repeating itself.

“Twenty-five years ago, people were tired of seeing rectangles and you saw the kidney bean and other freeform shapes, but I'd say we are close to 50-50 between installing rectangular and freeform pools now,” he says.

Ultimately, the right shape should be dictated by each individual client's desire. Are they looking for a pool to swim in or is it more of a social gathering place? Do they want a diving pool? What will create a more seamless transition with the rest of the backyard?

“If clients want a clean look, they go with rectangles. And if they want more of the natural resort-type feel, then you see the freeform pools with the rock grottos and waterslides and that sort of stuff,” says McFarlane.

A TOUCH OF SALT

Think back to your childhood days spent at the pool and you're likely to invoke memories of the smell of chlorine on your skin and irritated red eyes. And so it's no wonder that the industry has evolved over the years and in doing so has seen salt-generated chlorinator systems become the prevalent choice for pool owners. With benefits ranging from making the water gentler on the skin to reduced maintenance costs, salt systems have become the standard in the industry today.

“Just about every pool I install is saltwater; I haven't probably put in a chlorination pool in five years,” says Walter Beyer, owner of Stardust Pools. “There's a lot less upkeep and the temperature doesn't affect it. It could be 105 degrees or 65 degrees; it could be sunny or it could be rainy; your pool is always going to have the same level of chlorine. ... As long as the pool is running, it will be crystal clear all the time.”

“Salt will also reduce your ownership costs dramatically. Instead of spending $500-$600 a year on chlorine, you might spend $40 a year on salt and achieve the same benefits,” says Payne.

But while the salt systems make pools easier to balance and maintain, there can also be some negatives associated. “The upside is that you do not need to play with tablets and powders, the salt will be gentle on your skin, you can open your eyes underwater without the burn, the salt will not bleach anything, and blonde hair will not turn green,” says Blasker. “The downside is that the salt will produce an alkaline effect that raises your pH and salt will have an adverse effect on steel railings, ladders, etc.”

Also something to take into consideration is that “homeowners like the ‘set it and forget it’ aspect of a saltwater system, but it is an added expense, and the salt cell requires maintenance and eventually will need to be replaced every handful of years,” says Wilson.

And no matter if you have a salt or chlorine pool, maintaining proper water chemistry is crucial. While some DIY-ers may attempt to handle balancing things on their own, it is truly best to get your water tested by a professional to assure you don't cause damage to your pool.

Tracy Bond is the president and owner of Great Valley Pool Service and says at the very least, weekly water testing is recommended. Sometimes even more frequent tests are needed if the pool is heavily used or has been recently built or refinished.

“There are many different things that can impact your water chemistry from the weather to the number of people using the pool to things like pets, pollen, fertilizer drift, grass clippings, etc.,” says Bond. “It is important that your water is regularly tested and adjusted to avoid damage that can occur to your pool's finish, to your pool equipment and to ensure that your water is properly sanitized for your bathers to prevent illness. Proper balancing also prevents problems from occurring like algae and cloudy water as well.”

And for those who don't have the time to wait in line at the shop, Bond's crew will come to you. “We offer a recurring service where we clean and chemically balance the pool each week. This includes testing and balancing your water; emptying all skimmer and pump baskets; backwashing and cleaning the filter as needed; as well as skimming, brushing and vacuuming the pool,” she says.

ENHANCING THE EXPERIENCE

While seeing the kids do cannonballs into the deep end or waking up early each day to swim laps may be a welcomed aspect of owning a pool, these days owners are looking to up the ante with plenty of bells and whistles.

“Maybe someone doesn't have kids and they want their backyard to be a place to gather with other adults for happy hour or dinner, and so they want a sitting area. And perhaps they don't want to have giant waterfalls, but would like to hear the sound of water, so we'll add a couple deck jets so they can hear the water trickle,”

McFarlane says. "And then you have other people who say they want to have a water slide and a jumping rock for the kids."

And technology is playing a big part as well. Robotic cleaners, variable speed pumps and LED lighting have become the norm and growing automation capabilities are allowing folks to control many aspects of their pool's upkeep right in the palm of their hand.

"Automation is probably the most popular added element today. [These] systems allow the homeowner to control pumps, lights, heaters, deck jets and other pool accessories from their smart phone," Wilson says.

COVERING THE BASICS

Another area not to be overlooked is whether a mesh or solid safety cover is the right choice for you. Mesh covers—the less expensive of the two options—are lighter, easier to maneuver, but do allow some light and small debris into the pool, although recent advancements have increased their effectiveness in combatting these issues. On the flipside, solid covers do not allow any water, debris or UV light into the pool. This eliminates all algae growth during the winter, so you need less winterizing chemicals and the spring cleanup is easier.

Ultimately, it comes down to the preference of the homeowner on the level of maintenance they wish to take on.

"Solid covers are a little more expensive and there's also a little bit more maintenance involved. You have to manage the water on top of that cover because it's not going to go through it, so you have to maintain a surface pump on there and through the winter you have to make sure the pump is working," says McFarlane.

"The solid covers have a lot of benefits in that the way you close the pool is typically the way you open the pool," says Beyer. "When you have a mesh cover, when the leaves fall off onto the cover and they disintegrate and it rains, that filters through the cover and so the pools don't open up as clear."

Bond cautions that owners of solid covers remain vigilant on keeping an eye on their pumping system to make sure that all of the excess water is being funneled off of the cover.

"Excessive weight will cause the cover to sag," she says. "A saggy safety cover is more likely to fail over time."

No matter what kind of pool you purchase or what extra elements you consider, the key is to do your homework before you put pen to paper on a pricey contract so you feel confident you are hiring the right contractor instead of finding yourself with a money pit in the backyard for years to come.

"No company is perfect, but the difference in contractors is made when an issue arises, and how that contractor handles that issue," says Blasker. "You want a contractor who is going to take your call, present you with a plan and execute upon that plan in a timely manner."

H&H profile

If you give First State Building & Design a call for your new outdoor project or interior renovation, it will be the only call you need to make.

"We are a one-stop shop and manage the entire process from start to finish," Joe Oakes says. "A foundational pillar and core value of our company is built on quality; providing quality in our workmanship and providing a quality customer experience."

As the owner and president of First State Building & Design (FSBD), Oakes understands the value of being that "one-stop" shop for clients.

"We pride ourselves on our reputation over many, many years of masterful design and execution of classic outdoor living spaces and we offer special features other companies can't, such as curved structures that are very aesthetically appealing," Oakes says.

THE TIME TO START IS NOW

The experts at FSBD encourage clients to get started right away on their projects.

"Manufacturing and supply issues continue to challenge our industry every day and customers don't want to wait four, six or eight months to complete a project," Oakes says. "Everything from standard 'cookie-cutter' decks to a six-figure, intricately planned renovation can take time, so it's never too early to begin."

Oakes adds that each project includes a lot of steps, such as initial consultations, creating structural drawings and picking out the right materials. For instance, decking material options include AZEK, a long-lasting PVC advanced polymer; Timbertech Composite, a composite material with a vinyl coat; exotic hardwoods, including the durable Brazilian hardwood ipe; and traditional treated lumber, such as redwood, cedar or a combination of wood species in pressure-treated wood.

DECKING TRENDS

Offering a variety of decking materials is not the only way FSBD stays on top of current outdoor trends. Oakes and his staff know what can take outdoor spaces to the next level.

The popularity of outdoor cooking has seen growth in recent years, with more and more customers wanting to incorporate grills, counters and entire outdoor kitchens into their projects. Outdoor leisure living is in style, too, with requests for televisions, sound systems and other special technological devices.

Roof overhangs on decks and patios have the benefit of offering much-wanted privacy as well as protection to extend the space's seasonal usage.

"Our Phantom Screens product includes a motorized option that can offer even more protection with a push of a button," Oakes says. "Another great option for our clients is our Sunspace product that can be customized to create their dream indoor/outdoor living space."

Oakes goes on to say that even simple amenities are gaining popularity among clients, such as enhancing ambiance with unique lighting, fire features and outdoor heating elements. Construction aesthetics, such as mixing rustic and modern materials or using metals and reclaimed lumber, can also elevate a project.

A SLATE OF SERVICES

"We are a growth-oriented company that continually surveys the market for unique opportunities to expand our offerings and our customer base," Oakes says.

The FSBD exterior division includes standard deck installations, large up-scale outdoor living spaces, hardscaping, porches, entrance porticos and swimming pools.

In 2019, the company began to offer interior renovations, such as kitchens, bathrooms, basements and other interior living spaces.

Not Your Ordinary Contractor

First State Building & Design takes pride in delivering quality workmanship and an outstanding customer experience from start to finish.

by Kristen Dowd

Oakes encourages prospective clients to visit the company's two showrooms. A 1,300-square-foot exterior showcase display completed in 2022 gives customers a chance to see almost every exterior renovation feature up-close and at full scale. The FSBD 4,500-square-foot showroom houses both exterior and interior products.

"We want to offer the ability to see and feel our products and materials. We want customers to get a real sense of how they function and how they actually work," Oakes says. "In this way, we help people make the best design choices for their home renovation project."

FINDING THE RIGHT FIT

Some customers know exactly what they want, but most have only general ideas.

"This is where we shine," Oakes says. "Because we are a full-service construction design and build company, we help educate and guide clients who aren't quite sure how to articulate their specific needs or wants into the project."

"By taking the time to educate our prospective clients as much as possible from the start, we're looking to create that all important bond and relationship of trust from the very beginning," he adds.

First off, clients can expect a return phonecall within 24 hours. Then, at the beginning of the process, clients will meet with a member of the FSBD sales/estimator team to learn about their options and receive guidance on what will work best in their space. Designers then create preliminary renderings. Estimates are free and appointments are scheduled at the client's convenience.

"Our goal is to take the unnecessary burden and hassle of project management away from our clients and put it where it belongs—in our capable hands. Our clients constantly tell us how happy they are with our process because we save them time and a lot of headaches," Oakes says.

"We take pride in our work," he adds. "Our workmanship matters and our customers matter." H&H

Archadeck of Delaware

DAVID LYONS WAS RAISED IN THE HOME IMPROVEMENT INDUSTRY. He started working with his father in general contracting as a teenager, followed by employment in a hardware business which then transitioned into working for other companies in the industry. However, Lyons couldn't shake the itch of breaking out onto his own. Decks have been something he enjoyed designing and building, so it was only natural for him to launch Archadeck of Delaware. Operating since 1980, Archadeck is a trusted and reliable custom deck, patio and porch builder, serving Delaware since 2017 with their expertise and knowledge in the decking industry and providing the best materials and design that can turn your dream outdoor living space into reality.

House & Home spoke with Lyons about how deck preferences have changed and why Archadeck stands apart from the rest.

David Lyons,
owner

WHAT MAKES ARCHADECK STAND OUT FROM ITS COMPETITORS?

We strive to build at a higher standard. We build above and beyond the code, and we aim to excel in customer service and communication. From the initial phone call in the beginning until the project is finishing up, we're going to be spending a lot of time with our clients. I've had several people tell me they were surprised we showed up for the appointment. Everyone has those nightmare stories. While other companies use subcontractors, they can be hit or miss. Our crews are employees, high-quality people with benefits and workers' compensation. With us, customers can expect professionalism, a clean job site and honesty.

HOW HAVE YOU SEEN DECKING TRENDS EVOLVE OVER THE YEARS?

More people are getting away from wood, although some still go with pressure-treated wood, but there has been a big increase in costs for it at the moment. Composite is the preferred choice because it's maintenance free and comes in a variety of colors.

For a time curved decks were popular but we don't do many of those anymore. I like doing two tones such as having the frame in a different color than the boards or trying a parting board in a different color. You can change the design of it just by changing the colors of the deck boards.

I also see more people who want a screened-in porch or sunroom, not just a deck.

MANY PEOPLE ARE STARTING TO THINK ABOUT HAVING A DECK BUILT FOR THIS SUMMER. WHAT WOULD YOU SAY ABOUT THEIR TIMELINE?

People should pull the trigger fast. Right now, it would be June or July before we could start on it because we are booked so far out. With summer fast approaching, that wait time will only get longer. If you would like to have a new outdoor living space in time to enjoy for the summer, don't wait. But, with all of the features available, decks can be enjoyed well into fall, so there is still plenty of time in the year to get use out of it.

WHAT FINAL WORDS OF ADVICE WOULD YOU HAVE FOR HOMEOWNERS AS THEY RESEARCH COMPANIES FOR THEIR DECK PROJECT?

I would make sure the company is insured and has workers' compensation insurance. You might save a couple thousand up front by going with a company that cuts corners, but if someone gets hurt on your property it could cost you tens of thousands of dollars or more. Look for the best value—typically the best value is not the lowest price. Check out the company's workmanship and professionalism. We seek to build something for our customers that they can enjoy knowing that it is installed correctly and we can be proud of building it. H&H

AAA Hellenic Marble

STONE MATERIALS ARE ESSENTIALLY THE ICING OF ANY KITCHEN OR BATHROOM PROJECT, PROVIDING BOTH THE FUNCTIONAL VALUE OF PULLING THE ROOM'S COMPONENTS TOGETHER AND SOMETHING PLEASING FOR THE EYE.

Choosing the perfect stone takes careful consideration, and the guidance of someone who knows the product. At AAA Hellenic, customers can turn to professionals who have decades of experience designing and installing stone in kitchens, bathrooms, foyers, fireplaces and even in outdoor living spaces. Mike Werner, sales manager, is one such expert who has been with the family-focused company for more than 10 years.

House & Home spoke with Werner about how new products from Silestone and Dekton are giving people the high-end looks they've wanted at a more reasonable price.

Mike Werner,

WHEN YOU MEET WITH CLIENTS, WHAT ARE SOME THINGS YOU NEED TO KNOW ABOUT THEIR LIFESTYLE TO GUIDE THEIR SELECTION?

Most individuals typically have saved pictures they found online or in magazines to establish an idea of their design preferences. We also want to know about what's going on in the space where the stone will be used. Every household is different. Materials they might like or find attractive might not be the best choice for their home. Granite is very dense and durable. It is heat resistant and scratch resistant, with minimal maintenance. Marble is a classic choice with unrivaled beauty and gives you a timeless look. It may be a little softer than granite, but will still give you a very durable surface.

CAN YOU TALK ABOUT THE EMERGING POPULARITY OF NATURAL STONE QUARTZITE AND YOUR KNOWLEDGE OF IT?

Engineered quartz has gained popularity over the past couple of years, but natural stone is still the most requested for its beauty and durability. Natural stone quartzite is an especially good choice for kitchens. Everyone likes the look of marble, but it's softer and more porous. Quartzite is a dense stone that can handle the impact and functionality in a kitchen, and it's not as porous.

We directly import this stone from the quarries to our facility, which enables us to pass discounted pricing on to clients for rare quartzites in a wide variety of colors. The materials are temperamental and require a high level of care and precision, which Hellenic excels and specializes in.

WHAT ARE THE NEWEST MATERIALS ON THE MARKET AND WHERE ARE THEY BEST USED IN THE HOME?

We're really excited about the design potential with products from Silestone and Dekton in shower wall and bathroom applications. People have been longing for a solid-slab, seamless look on their shower walls—nobody likes grout joints—but this comes with additional labor to get these large slabs into tight shower spaces. These new products are more durable and thinner, making them easier to transport and install. Silestone is engineered quartz and in particular has some nice combinations of natural stone-looking materials, as well as muted patterns for the monochromatic look people want. Dekton is a porcelain and glass hybrid with quartz that is more durable and still gives that desirable natural stone look. This is something that we are specializing in.

HOW CAN CUSTOMERS ARRANGE TO VISIT YOUR SLAB YARD TO SEE THEIR OPTIONS?

Our slab yard is open by appointment so we can control the amount of people in the building at a time, everything is spaced out and we also have outdoor inventory available weather permitting. We have implemented additional safety measures, including UV light systems and UV air purifiers to reduce airborne contaminants and provide more peace of mind for customers. We also offer virtual appointments.

Our inventory of marble, granite, soapstone and quartzite is very strong right now, we've added a lot of new products for people. We have about 200 different colors on display, and our stones are directly imported from places like Italy, Brazil and Africa. It's always beneficial to walk through and see the stone in different lighting, and more often than not, people find something they never expected. H&H
