Ferris Home Improvements is ready to help homeowners start planning the perfect outdoor living space that will be ready for the summer season.

Taking it Outside

As the frost of winter slowly gives way to the promise of sunny days, it's the perfect time to start thinking about improving your outdoor living space. Picture yourself basking in the warm sun, hosting delightful summer parties and creating unforgettable memories in an outdoor oasis you designed. Ferris Home Improvements is ready to walk you through the process of creating your dream space.

"What really sets us apart is that we are a local company and we have local craftsmen," Matt Janes, general manager, says. "When it comes to creating a beautiful and functional outdoor living space, high-quality workmanship is paramount."

Avoid the Summer Rush

Summer is peak season for outdoor decking projects. By starting your custom deck installation early, you can steer clear of the last-minute rush and lengthy waiting times that often accompany it. Many skilled contractors are more readily available during the off-season, ensuring that you can secure a qualified professional to bring your custom deck vision to fruition. This proactive approach guarantees a smoother construction process, helping you enjoy your custom outdoor living space in time for summer.

Screened Rooms and Three-Season Rooms

These additions to your outdoor space offer a seamless blend of indoor comfort and outdoor enjoyment, enabling you to enjoy the beauty of the outdoors throughout the year. These spaces are designed to protect against the elements while offering a cozy, inviting environment for relaxation or social gatherings before the onset of colder weather.

StruXure Pergolas and Cabanas

The introduction of StruXure Pergolas, including the innovative Cabana X and Pergola X, marks a leap forward in outdoor living luxury. Equipped with the latest in control features and systems such as wind and rain sensors, voice command and optional home-automation integration, these structures provide a stylish and functional haven, elevating your outdoor space into something truly exceptional.

Dry Spaces and Lighting Solutions

Ensure your outdoor area remains usable and safe regardless of the weather with Ferris' dry space and lighting installations. By effectively managing moisture and providing clear, powerful lighting, Ferris Home Improvements guarantees that your outdoor space is both beautiful and functional day and night, rain or shine.

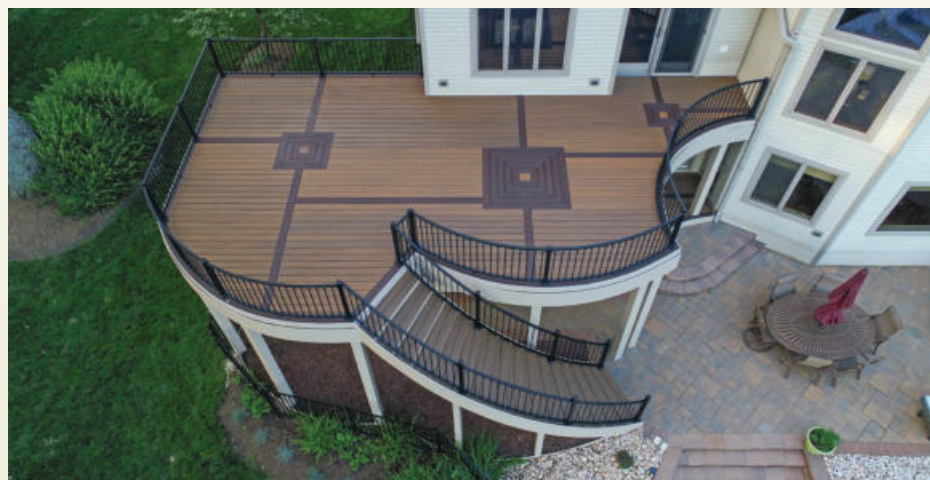

Outdoor Kitchens

Whether you're grilling for a summer barbecue or preparing a family meal, an outdoor kitchen proves a convenient and enjoyable setting for cooking and socializing. Ferris Home Improvements carefully considers every aspect of the design, from the layout to materials, ensuring your outdoor kitchen is not only aesthetically pleasing but also durable and weather-resistant, encouraging more time spent in the fresh air with friends and family.

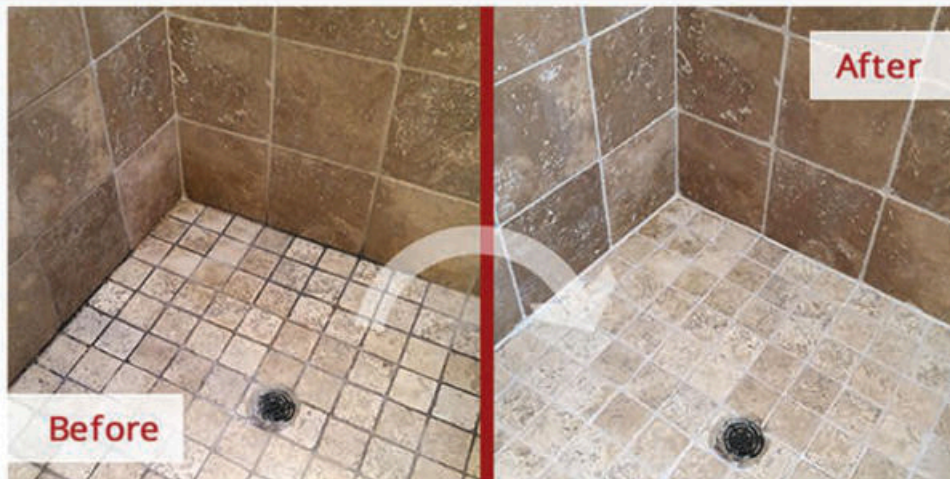

Realistic Preview with 3D Renderings

Ferris Home Improvements takes customer service and satisfaction to the next level by offering 3D renderings of its designs, allowing clients to visualize their outdoor living spaces before construction begins. This innovative approach enables customers to see the potential of their outdoor areas, ensuring that the final layout, style and features align perfectly with their expectations.

Janes explains that now is the best time to call and start your outdoor living process. "Depending on the size and scale of the project, you could be looking at as much as four to eight weeks to get your project completed," he says, adding this can include everything from planning, designing and building your outdoor living space. "The last thing we want someone to do is rush the design of their outdoor living space. We want you to love and enjoy it for years to come." H&H

Building Something Special

The skilled team at Get Decked bring decades of experience and a personalized approach to every project.

YOU DON'T BECOME DELAWARE'S BEST DECK BUILDER BY COINCIDENCE.

Just ask Mike Jerminski, owner and president of Get Decked, who has been strictly building custom decks year round for nearly four decades and knows firsthand how important it is to connect with customers on both a professional and personal level.

"Homeowners today are highly educated in the process of choosing the perfect contractor," he says.

Thanks to a solid reputation for quality craftsmanship and excellent service helped built over Jerminski's 39 years in the industry, more and more of these educated customers are turning to Get Decked to make their backyard dreams come true.

And it's no wonder why so many trust Get Decked's highly skilled team. After all, the company has built custom decks in thousands of backyards throughout New Castle County in Delaware, and Chester County in Pennsylvania. That level of proficiency certainly helps Get Decked stand out as leaders in the industry and has resulted in Jerminski often hearing customers refer to his team as a "well-oiled machine."

"Our crew has the knowledge and polished skills," he says. "We didn't write the book on building decks, but we sure have read it. And we work hard to apply all that we've learned over the years to each job."

That dedication to customer satisfaction and prideful work hasn't gone unnoticed. In fact, Get Decked has been voted Delaware's Best Deck Builder by House & Home for eight consecutive years.

It's quite an accomplishment for this family-owned company which continues to evolve with the times. The crew is now headed by Jerminski's two sons Michael and Jerry, both considered to be elite craftsmen who have followed in their father's footsteps by dedicating their lives to the decking industry. Also helping the company grow has been Get Decked's talented office crew led by Jerminski's wife Connie, who brings 20 years of her own deck-building experience to the job and is regarded for her extensive knowledge and unparalleled customer relations. Working alongside Connie is the very personable, smart and talented duo of Kayla Hughes and longtime secretary Loni Vlaeminck, who work behind the scenes to assure projects run smoothly. Their tireless efforts are a big reason why Jerminski credits these unsung heroes as being so valuable and essential to Get Decked's continued success.

"These women work very hard at coordinating the everyday challenges of the business and we are proud of the fact that when a customers contacts us, we have skilled people in the office that can answer any question regarding the deck building trade," Jerry Jerminski says.

That's not to say that Mike Jerminski has taken a step back. In fact, he remains very much involved in all aspects of the business, from providing estimates to potential customers to working hands-on to assure a project's successful completion. You're even likely to find him working well into the evening in the company's shop cutting and getting ready for the next day's job.

It's all further evidence of Get Decked's personalized approach to customer satisfaction and continued ability to not only meet but exceed a homeowner's expectations.

"It took 39 years of gathering the knowledge, perfect tools for the job, the education, experience and hands-on training to get where we are today," says Jerry Jerminski. "We have worked so hard to build a company that will last 'deckades' into the future."

Using only top-of-the-line materials and state-of-the-art tools, each one of Get Decked's projects are works of excellent craftsmanship and come backed with a very strong warranty. And with scores of happy clients across the region, the company is able to allow their work to speak for itself.

"We get asked if we have a showroom that homeowners can visit. But we believe showrooms are for cars and salespeople. Instead, we take pride in turning your backyard into our showroom," Jerry Jerminski says.

So for those considering adding a new deck to their outdoor living space, the Get Decked team are eager to make you another homeowner singing their praises.

"We treat our customers like family and the decks we have constructed years ago are just as important to us as the one we are currently working on. We pride ourselves on being all-inclusive so our customers won't have to worry about a thing and that is why we have stood the test of time," says Jerry Jerminski. "We all take it very much to heart and honestly love what we do. Let's plan your dream deck today and work together on making it a reality." H&H

Elevated Exteriors

Exploring the plethora of effective decking options takes an outdoor living space—and the entire home—to new heights.

BY CARLY MURRAY

A stylish and functional deck can be the centerpiece of a memorable summer, and the modern, multifaceted approach to decking allows for an expansion of the home. Traditionally a place of outdoor observation, gathering and relaxation, decks in 2024 often include the additional features of outdoor kitchens, pergolas, gazebos, screens, fireplaces and more. The consistently growing trend of creative customization is no longer limited to interior design or landscaping, enhancing both a space and residents' quality of life.

Deck Aesthetics

Home renovation projects have the best results when they are coordinated with each element of the home, culminating in a harmonious structure with every detail taken into account. When it comes to decking, one should be mindful of the adjacent interior space, the outdoor living space surrounding it and the exterior elements of a home. A property can be like a blank canvas, completely restructured for optimal personalization, but it can also act as a starting point to inspire a deck's look and utility

"Two factors dictate what your new deck should look like—it must be in proportion with the house and property, and it must be built large enough to accommodate the people using the deck," says Jerry Jerminski of Get Decked.

Colonial-style houses are characteristic of the Delaware Valley region, and that built-in historical charm allows for a guideline to help match a deck to the exterior. This is not to say that the preferred aesthetics are exclusively vintage, but rather timeless. When renovating or remodeling a deck, experts and homeowners strive to fuse contemporary and classic elements.

"A few years back, a lot of what we saw were modern looks. It seems that it has changed a little bit more to traditional, classic looks with a modern touch. [For] example, sleek rails, black railings—but still the classic wood look on the deck. So, it seems like the style is slowly moving toward a modern-classical look," says Ephraim Stoltzfus, designer at Deck Craft Plus.

Bold and bright colors aren't very common, so the general process is to opt for a complementary neutral color for the base and to style it with finishes or other parts of the accompanying outdoor living space. With all of the options available, one can pick the exact shade variation with undertones that are congruent with the rest of the space.

"They've developed a few colors that can fit in with the older architectural stone, and then the beige will come out. A gray will come out if you want to hit that modern farmhouse with a gray. They have colors that will satisfy both at the same time—pretty ingenious," explains Bill Wilson, co-owner of Amazing Decks.

Gray seems to be the top choice, according to decking experts in the region. It is the perfect amalgamation of sleek and futuristic tones with an evergreen and adaptable quality. Warmer and cooler colored accessory pieces further influence the look of the deck as a whole.

"I think gray decking is very popular right now. AZEK has about three or four different gray colors, and it seems like we sell a ton of those. Powder-coated aluminum railing mimicking the old, wrought-iron railing style is [also] super popular right now," adds Ray Ebersol, marketing manager of Decks R Us.

Similar to a primary gray color, black adornments are versatile enough to work well with a multitude of colors and styles. The neutral color also gives more freedom to play around with designs without appearing over the top.

"Our most popular railing color now is the bold, black-on-black design—black cross rails and black Decorators balusters," affirms Jerminski

Elevated Exteriors

As every piece is essential to the fully finished project, the base of the deck may influence railing and step options, and steps and railing can impact the inclusion of lighting. Aesthetics can encompass visual and tactile appeal with materials, patterns and colors, but to take it up a notch, consider creating movement. Illuminate chosen visuals by intertwining lighting and guiding the eye to a designated focal point.

Deck Lighting

Lighting beautifies decking to a new level, and can range from practical to whimsical. Robert Lascelle, owner of My Deck, explains that colored lighting is called RGB lights, and they are increasingly gaining popularity with newer projects. However, practical lighting can still create an ethereal effect with the variety of options and cognizance of placement.

"Our viewpoint on lighting for a high-quality job...Your eyes should not focus on light fixtures, you're looking at the light the fixtures put out and that's what makes quality light jobs," says Lascelle. "Recessed under-rail lights [and] recessed under-stair riser lights are two examples"

Of course, any type of lighting will always require some sort of electrical accommodation. As with any home improvement project, careful planning is not just encouraged—it's a prerequisite. Jarrod Coburn, co-owner and production manager of Archadeck Outdoor Living of Mount Laurel, explains that the most common deck lighting—stair riser lights and rail post cap lights—does not require an electrician to install, but rather utilizes landscape wiring and a transformer with a solar sensor.

"When doing a new deck project or a complete demo and new deck replacement, it's best to decide on your lighting and under deck/skirting options before you start," Coburn says. "Running low voltage wiring to your stair risers and/or rail caps is much easier and cleaner if done before the decking is installed."

DECKS

Add-Ons

The decision to make a deck an extension of the home demands cohesiveness, but that forethought in the design process is well worth the effort. Expanding the space also expands the realm of lifestyle possibilities. Personalizing a deck for each unique household's lifestyle guarantees that it will be where cherished memories are made.

"Imagine a perfect place for prom or wedding pictures. The multi-level decks cascade around the house towards their backyard with a gorgeous lake view," says Coburn, as he describes one of his most memorable projects.

Whether it is designing a platform ideal for family photographs above a stunning backyard oasis or considering architectural durability for a household with small children, the lifestyle needs of a home's residents are at the forefront. Many of these decisions equate to the idea of accessibility: making sure getting into the house via the deck does not require excessive effort with steep hills or unaligned entrances and adding features that are functional.

Exterior kitchens have made major traction in recent years, as they are highly customizable and add efficiency to the cooking process. When entertaining, a deck can give guests a maximized place to hang out without getting in the way of the food's preparation, and it can also allow for multitasking if cooking multiple dishes.

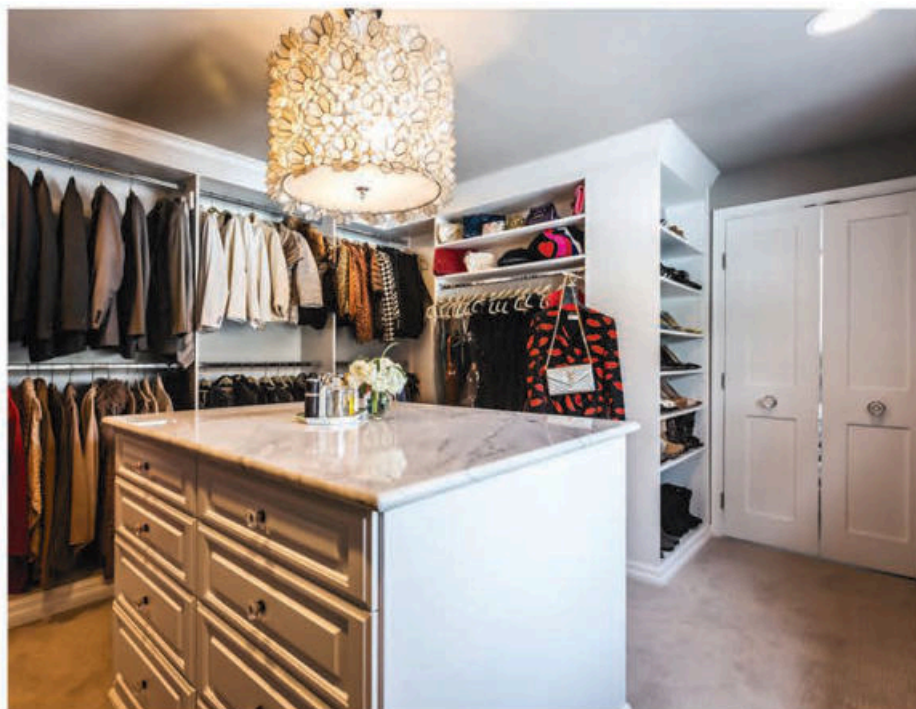

"You could have 150 people at your house, but they'll all hang out in the kitchen area. We call it the heart of the house. ... It's very important that we make our deck an extension of that heart of the house," says Wilson.

Full outdoor kitchens contain almost everything one would expect in an indoor kitchen: sinks, pull-out garbage, refrigerators, drawers and cabinets. Lascelle explains that the main focus is usually a standard grill, but he has witnessed the emergence of outdoor pizza ovens and hibachi-style grills.

"We're doing a ton of exterior kitchens, they're a really big feature that we put on a lot of decks now that people really enjoy," he says. "You can have a full kitchen outside

Taking in nature and fresh air is paradisiacal—with the exception of a few factors. Gazebos, pergolas and screens are other common deck embellishments that provide a picturesque quality as well as factors to ensure an optimal outdoor experience. This includes staying shaded, warm or cool in varied weather, and protection from bugs.

"Gazebos are a great way to screen in an area, to spend more time outdoors. Obviously, if it's bug free, this will enhance the experience ... [and] makes it more pleasant on hot days to sit inside of the gazebo rather than out in the open, in the sun," says Ebersol.

Regardless of any potential qualms about an outdoor living space, there is typically an inventive solution that can be built into a deck. For example, gazebos can have outlets, fans and tinted windows installed. Additionally, working with the railing and underside of a deck can best maximize the area. Stoltzfus exemplifies this problem-solving approach while discussing a unique project that he worked on last summer: a second-story deck with a fully custom outdoor kitchen and bar underneath.

"We put a dry space underneath, outfitted with lights of course and some ceiling fans. We put stone columns from the ground to railing height, and we put screens in around the bottom of that deck. ... The face screens were all electrical screens, and we put a double-sided fireplace under the deck as well," he recounts.

A desired vision is a major first step toward the deck of one's dreams, and previously inconceivable attributes are more accessible than ever. Consulting an expert can traverse imaginative ideals and conceptualize them into reality, guaranteeing a deck you and your family will love. H&H

Archadeck of Delaware

DAVID LYONS WAS RAISED IN THE HOME IMPROVEMENT INDUSTRY. He started working with his father in general contracting as a teenager, followed by employment in a hardware business which then transitioned into working for other companies in the industry. However, Lyons couldn't shake the itch of breaking out onto his own. Decks have been something he enjoyed designing and building, so it was only natural for him to launch Archadeck of Delaware. Operating since 1980, Archadeck is a trusted and reliable custom deck, patio and porch builder, serving Delaware since 2017 with their expertise and knowledge in the decking industry and providing the best materials and design that can turn your dream outdoor living space into reality.

House & Home spoke with Lyons about how deck preferences have changed and why Archadeck stands apart from the rest.

David Lyons,
owner

WHAT MAKES ARCHADECK STAND OUT FROM ITS COMPETITORS?

We strive to build at a higher standard. We build above and beyond the code, and we aim to excel in customer service and communication. From the initial phone call in the beginning until the project is finishing up, we're going to be spending a lot of time with our clients. I've had several people tell me they were surprised we showed up for the appointment. Everyone has those nightmare stories. While other companies use subcontractors, they can be hit or miss. Our crews are employees, high-quality people with benefits and workers' compensation. With us, customers can expect professionalism, a clean job site and honesty.

HOW HAVE YOU SEEN DECKING TRENDS EVOLVE OVER THE YEARS?

More people are getting away from wood, although some still go with pressure-treated wood, but there has been a big increase in costs for it at the moment. Composite is the preferred choice because it's maintenance free and comes in a variety of colors.

For a time curved decks were popular but we don't do many of those anymore. I like doing two tones such as having the frame in a different color than the boards or trying a parting board in a different color. You can change the design of it just by changing the colors of the deck boards.

I also see more people who want a screened-in porch or sunroom, not just a deck.

MANY PEOPLE ARE STARTING TO THINK ABOUT HAVING A DECK BUILT FOR THIS SUMMER. WHAT WOULD YOU SAY ABOUT THEIR TIMELINE?

People should pull the trigger fast. Right now, it would be June or July before we could start on it because we are booked so far out. With summer fast approaching, that wait time will only get longer. If you would like to have a new outdoor living space in time to enjoy for the summer, don't wait. But, with all of the features available, decks can be enjoyed well into fall, so there is still plenty of time in the year to get use out of it.

WHAT FINAL WORDS OF ADVICE WOULD YOU HAVE FOR HOMEOWNERS AS THEY RESEARCH COMPANIES FOR THEIR DECK PROJECT?

I would make sure the company is insured and has workers' compensation insurance. You might save a couple thousand up front by going with a company that cuts corners, but if someone gets hurt on your property it could cost you tens of thousands of dollars or more. Look for the best value—typically the best value is not the lowest price. Check out the company's workmanship and professionalism. We seek to build something for our customers that they can enjoy knowing that it is installed correctly and we can be proud of building it. H&H

No Place Like Home

First State Building & Design is a premier option for all-inclusive home renovation expertise, the latest in trends and fine-tuned personalization. by CARLY MURRAY

Whether embarking on a project for a single space or across multiple living areas, it's best to consult with experts who can make any design cohesive and harmonious with the rest of the home. First State Building & Design offers an extensive selection of both indoor and outdoor design and build services that expand a space's potential.

The number of services available is jaw-dropping on its own: custom decks and pools, porches, sunrooms, pergolas, pavilions, gazebos, awnings, patios, hardscaping, outdoor kitchens and fireplaces, phantom screen and fence installation, interior room remodeling including kitchens, bathrooms, basement and more, in-law suites, windows, roofing, doors and siding. While the offerings are abundant, simply listing them just scratches the surface of the wide range of customization opportunities available.

"Personalization is the top priority. We never have any two projects that are exactly the same. I think a lot of the top trends from last year and moving into this year have been adding outdoor kitchens, outdoor fireplaces, multi-level decks, so really maximizing the space that you have available and creating that visual interest," says president of First State Building & Design Joe Oakes.

The home renovation process, from beginning to end, is a unique journey for each client that results in the fully conceptualized space of one's dreams. The expansive, completely in-house team at First State Building & Design is skilled at providing top-notch inspiration, as well as customer dedication every step of the way.

"We take on every single aspect of design and build, concentrating on all the details that the homeowners want to include in their projects and providing our expertise in the planning phase as well," Oakes affirms. "We always maintain consistent communication with the customer throughout their project until it's finished and even afterwards, as well just to make sure that the client experience exceeds their expectations."

Undoubtedly, working with a one-stop-shop company committed to client communication provides the highly sought but difficult-to-achieve efficiency one wants during a large-scale home project. Once a customer makes an appointment, First State Building & Design conducts an in-home assessment that allows them to create a design plan and a 3D rendering with no extra cost or commitment.

"They can really see what they had envisioned in lifelike form. And then if there are any modifications, we can go back in and adjust those renderings as needed," Oakes begins, with his passion for First State Building & Design's clients infusing his description of a project currently in the works.

"We're taking this beautiful home and making it the perfect place for these homeowners in doing an extensive interior and exterior renovation that includes an new enlarged custom kitchen and an attached expanded outdoor living space with a sunroom and patio to make it what they've dreamed of when they first bought the property and expanding upon the already beautiful property," he continues.

For some, the client experience begins in the showroom, encouraging homeowners to draw inspiration from the in-person look and feel of different products. Along with the 3D renderings derived from the consultation process, the showroom is an excellent place to see what products, designs, materials and colors look best together. It displays all facets of home remodeling, from indoor to outdoor finishes.

First State Building & Design even posts blogs about current trends in interior design and outdoor living spaces. In keeping up-to-date with the latest in aesthetics, the company additionally implements modern technology to ensure optimal utilization and comfort.

"Marrying the indoor and outdoor spaces has been trending, with some enclosed rooms or covered porches as well as using Phantom motorized screens to be able to use that outdoor space. Or, if you want to lower those motorized screens, especially in the evenings to keep all the mosquitoes away, you can do that just at the click of a button," says Oakes.

Expanding a home to more elevated possibilities is in accordance with First State Building & Design's distinctive growth from outdoor living space expertise to an all-encompassing contractor. This expansion was inevitable with the characteristic attention to detail in providing quality workmanship and providing a quality experience from start to finish, along with the company's commitment to ensure a fully-realized vision.

"As the company has grown, we've taken our commitment of quality of workmanship and materials and our excellence in client experience and have carried this across all exterior and interior divisions," says Oakes, "It's great to be able to put our touch and our expertise and our attention to detail and quality on the inside of these homes as well as the outside, to and carry our vision through-out." H&H

AAA Hellenic

STONE MATERIALS ARE ESSENTIALLY THE ICING OF ANY KITCHEN OR BATHROOM PROJECT, PROVIDING BOTH THE FUNCTIONAL VALUE OF PULLING THE ROOM'S COMPONENTS TOGETHER AND SOMETHING PLEASING FOR THE EYE.

Choosing the perfect stone takes careful consideration, and the guidance of someone who knows the product. At AAA Hellenic, customers can turn to professionals who have decades of experience designing and installing stone in kitchens, bathrooms, foyers, fireplaces and even in outdoor living spaces. Mike Werner, sales manager, is one such expert who has been with the family-focused company for more than 10 years.

House & Home spoke with Werner about how new products from Silestone and Dekton are giving people the high-end looks they've wanted at a more reasonable price.

Mike Werner,

WHEN YOU MEET WITH CLIENTS, WHAT ARE SOME THINGS YOU NEED TO KNOW ABOUT THEIR LIFESTYLE TO GUIDE THEIR SELECTION?

Most individuals typically have saved pictures they found online or in magazines to establish an idea of their design preferences. We also want to know about what's going on in the space where the stone will be used. Every household is different. Materials they might like or find attractive might not be the best choice for their home. Granite is very dense and durable. It is heat resistant and scratch resistant, with minimal maintenance. Marble is a classic choice with unrivaled beauty and gives you a timeless look. It may be a little softer than granite, but will still give you a very durable surface.

CAN YOU TALK ABOUT THE EMERGING POPULARITY OF NATURAL STONE QUARTZITE AND YOUR KNOWLEDGE OF IT?

Engineered quartz has gained popularity over the past couple of years, but natural stone is still the most requested for its beauty and durability. Natural stone quartzite is an especially good choice for kitchens. Everyone likes the look of marble, but it's softer and more porous. Quartzite is a dense stone that can handle the impact and functionality in a kitchen, and it's not as porous.

We directly import this stone from the quarries to our facility, which enables us to pass discounted pricing on to clients for rare quartzites in a wide variety of colors. The materials are temperamental and require a high level of care and precision, which Hellenic excels and specializes in.

WHAT ARE THE NEWEST MATERIALS ON THE MARKET AND WHERE ARE THEY BEST USED IN THE HOME?

We're really excited about the design potential with products from Silestone and Dekton in shower wall and bathroom applications. People have been longing for a solid-slab, seamless look on their shower walls—nobody likes grout joints—but this comes with additional labor to get these large slabs into tight shower spaces. These new products are more durable and thinner, making them easier to transport and install. Silestone is engineered quartz and in particular has some nice combinations of natural stone-looking materials, as well as muted patterns for the monochromatic look people want. Dekton is a porcelain and glass hybrid with quartz that is more durable and still gives that desirable natural stone look. This is something that we are specializing in.

HOW CAN CUSTOMERS ARRANGE TO VISIT YOUR SLAB YARD TO SEE THEIR OPTIONS?

Our slab yard is open by appointment so we can control the amount of people in the building at a time, everything is spaced out and we also have outdoor inventory available weather permitting. We have implemented additional safety measures, including UV light systems and UV air purifiers to reduce airborne contaminants and provide more peace of mind for customers. We also offer virtual appointments.

Our inventory of marble, granite, soapstone and quartzite is very strong right now, we've added a lot of new products for people. We have about 200 different colors on display, and our stones are directly imported from places like Italy, Brazil and Africa. It's always beneficial to walk through and see the stone in different lighting, and more often than not, people find something they never expected. H&H
