20 years OF HOUSE & HOME

The House & Home team in 2006

CELEBRATING TWO DECADES OF THE REGION'S LEADING HOME DESIGN MAGAZINE

IN ANY BUSINESS, 20 YEARS IS A MILESTONE WORTHY OF CELEBRATING. Like most entrepreneurs, Bob Doran launched House & Home Magazine on a gut instinct that it would work. As someone who worked in sales and marketing for several hometown regional publications, Doran took notice of the success happening in the home repair and remodeling industry. "One day it just hit me," he says. "Maybe I should start a home design magazine?" Of course, when he told his wife, she wasn't so confident: "What do you know about starting your own magazine?" she quipped. "You'll need editors, writers, photographers..." Doran simply replied, "We'll figure it out."

After creating a prototype, Doran and a friend took copies in backpacks to the Philadelphia Home Show. His friend was promptly caught soliciting and kicked out, but Doran had the last laugh—by the following year, House & Home was the official show guide of the Home Show, and still is to this day.

Doran sold House & Home to Del Val Media in 2012 and remains Publisher Emeritus. "It's just incredible to think 20 years has gone by," he says. "It's awesome to see it flourishing, and with a lot of the veteran staff—Darlene Versak, Rochelle Dodge and Gary Edelstein. I often think of how many lives we've changed for the better by making their dream home a reality, something they can be proud of."

House & Home has built a reputation as the defining medium for showcasing home shelter trends to homeowners across Eastern Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware. "We owe so much to the readers," Doran continues. "Their feedback has helped turn House & Home into what it is today."

OUR PREMIER ISSUE

HOUSE & HOME TODAY

WORDS FROM OUR LOYAL ADVERTISERS:

"We were one of the original advertisers of House & Home. In fact, one of our pictures was the first cover. We have stayed with House & Home even though we have dropped almost all other paper advertising (just a small listing in the Verizon yellow pages) because House & Home is focused on exactly what we do, helping people make their house their home by creating the environments they are looking for with the help of companies like ours. The articles make House & Home different from coupon magazines or home magazines, which are just advertising. We feel that that makes House & Home more valuable to homeowners. They are more likely to keep it handy. We look forward to an even longer and happy relationship with House & Home!"

Elizabeth Pesce
Beco Kitchens & Bathrooms

"Plain and simple, I continue to advertise in House & Home because I support local small business and I'm nothing if not loyal. I originally began advertising in House & Home 20 years ago because of how it targets the customer demographic I desire. All these years later, nothing has changed."

David Carhart
Star Painting and Wallcovering

"I started with Bob Doran when he began the publication. I felt that House & Home reached the same clientele that we were trying to reach. There was some time that we pulled out during the recession, but we are back because I feel it is one of the nicest publications reaching the Main Line area."

A CUSTOMIZED SHED CAN BE AN AESTHETIC AND FUNCTIONAL SOLUTION

With summertime comes many opportunities to entertain or enjoy the backyard, but that also means lots of clutter in the form of patio furniture, pool toys, games and more. Where does all of that stuff go at the end of the party, or better yet at the end of the season when fall arrives?

When the basement is already full with old baby clothes or holiday decorations, and the garage is packed with cars and sports equipment, many homeowners opt for a customized shed for storage or even as a bonus space for relaxation.

House & Home spoke with several area professionals to learn more about the styles and materials available for sheds, what factors to consider before having one added to the property and other trends in the industry. →

SMART STORAGE

By Matt Cosentino

FOR HOMEOWNERS LOOKING TO HOUSE THEIR OUTDOOR ITEMS.

We make quite a few that are for bars or man caves, and we also do a lot of pool houses. They can be used for she sheds, studios, gym rooms. It's an outdoor living space, really is what it is.

—Jake Stoltzfus, Barnco Woodworks

SMART STORAGE

Starting the process

For homeowners who are considering a shed for their yard, the first step is to determine exactly what they want to store.

“First we hear them out and see what their needs are,” says Dave Zook of Stoltzfus Structures. “We try to get an idea for what they’re looking for, because someone living in a trailer court who wants to store his motorcycle and other equipment is totally different from someone who has a million-dollar property and wants to have the building ... fit into the look and feel of the property. So we get a feel for their needs to determine if functionality is more important than looks.”

Sheds can come in handy for all types of storage needs, from large items like lawn mowers and lounge chairs to smaller objects such as noodles for the pool.

“People want to store anything from pool equipment to lawn furniture to garden supplies,” says Jake Fisher of B&L Woodworking. “A lot of people just have everyday storage needs and are looking to store their extra things.”

“It can be garden tools, shop tools, pool equipment, pool accessories, bikes, motorcycles—all kinds of stuff,” adds Jake Stoltzfus of Barnco Woodworks.

Dan Stoltzfus of Country Tyme Sheds thinks it makes sense for people to start out by seeing the different types of sheds available for themselves.

“The best thing is for the customer to come out to the lot and walk around,” he says. “We have 70-plus sheds, so there are all kinds of different colors and style options to look at. We handle everything, from the stone face to the deliveries.”

Styles and materials

With all of the different types of sheds available, choosing a style can be overwhelming, so having a professional to guide the way is beneficial. At the end of the day, though, it usually just comes down to customer preference.

“There are tons of styles and options to choose from,” Fisher says. “The A-frame, the Quaker and the Cape Cod are the three most popular styles we sell.”

The A-frame is often preferred by those in residential neighborhoods because of its similar look to the house. Quaker and Cape Cod both offer classic looks, while other varieties include the hip roof with slopes on each side or the flat roof. A basic style that is usually the least expensive and used just for storage is the barn.

Stoltzfus Structures can customize sheds in all or most of these styles and even differentiates between storage sheds and garden sheds.

“If you want to ratchet it up a notch and take it to the next level, that’s when you go with a garden shed,” Zook says. “That’s the next level up as far as looks and cost. You’re going from a Chevy to a Lexus.”

The list of material choices is just as extensive. Country Tyme’s Stoltzfus says LP SmartSide is their most popular seller, but vinyl is an old reliable and often a go-to for people looking to match their house. Cedar, shiplap and stone are other options.

“There are so many choices; it’s incredible,” he says. “It all depends on your budget and what you’re trying to accomplish.”

Fiber cement siding from James Hardie is a pricier way to go, but according to Barnco’s Stoltzfus, it’s worth the extra cost.

“A lot of homes are being built with that and customers who know Hardie know the value of Hardie,” he says. “The Hardie is your best siding. The vinyl siding lasts a long time too, but you can’t run your lawnmower or your weed wacker up against it.”

Still, a vinyl shed remains popular because it requires little maintenance, while wood sheds are selected by those looking to save a buck.

SMART STORAGE

"For a vinyl shed versus a wood shed, you're paying a little bit more for convenience," Zook says. "You're never going to have to paint it and basically it's a lifetime product. You have to paint [a wood shed] every 10 years or so, and if you don't maintain it, there's a chance of it rotting on you."

However, Country Tyme's Stoltzfus touts a new stain product available that can make wood or wood siding hold up longer.

"It's a little bit more money but you can use this special stain now," he says. "It's only been out for a few years so we're waiting to see how long it lasts, but from what I've seen so far, it looks like the cat's meow. It's great."

Sizes and design elements

A typical size for a backyard shed is usually 12 by 20 feet or 12 by 24, but it can range from 6 by 8 to 24 by 40 and even bigger. Determining factors include the size of the property, what the homeowner is looking to store and, of course, budget.

Another key factor in the size of the shed is where the customer lives.

"The size of the shed depends on the size of the property and what township they're in," Fisher says. "A lot of townships have a restriction on how big people can go with their shed. They will allow you to go to a certain square footage before you need to get a building permit. That's something the customer needs to find out, because they'll also have to keep their shed [a certain] amount of feet from the property line to stay within the township guidelines."

As for design elements, many homeowners will look to dress up the shed to make it stand out from the rest of the neighborhood.

"There's everything from flower boxes to shutters," Zook says. "There are more functional uses like lofts and second stories, or you can make it prettier and add stuff like cupolas. There's a whole slew of options."

Adds Barnco's Stoltzfus: "We do custom at no charge, meaning we'll place your doors and windows where you want them and you also pick the color that suits your needs. We do flower boxes, round-top windows, round-top doors, square doors—the list goes on and on."

Other uses for sheds

All of the experts who spoke to House & Home agree that the latest trend centers on adding a shed not just for storage, but also as a bonus living space. She sheds, man caves and even home offices are just some of the possibilities.

"We make quite a few that are for bars or man caves, and we also do a lot of pool houses," Jake Stoltzfus says. "They can be used for she sheds, studios, gym rooms. It's an outdoor living space, really is what it is."

"That's very popular today," Dan Stoltzfus agrees. "People like to give themselves a place to escape and also to use for storage."

New Castle Artisan

by Brittany Ann Morrissey

Over the years, harsh weather can cause cracks and other damage on a home's concrete surfaces. Homeowners may put off repairs due to cost concerns, but replacing that concrete is not always the answer. Gwen Kunkel, owner of New Castle Artisan, can breathe new life into your existing surfaces—whether it's your driveway, pool deck, patio; practically any concrete surface around your home—with improved products and techniques. House & Home spoke with Kunkel about the economic and aesthetic value of concrete resurfacing.

Why would someone want to resurface concrete versus replacement?

The benefit of resurfacing is instead of just fixing a problem like cracking, pitting or damage from mold, you can make a home improvement. Right now if you have concrete that's cracked or un-level, you can repair or replace it with new concrete, but you'll just have new concrete. It doesn't increase the curb appeal of your home. It doesn't increase the value of your home. With resurfacing, we add design and we carve the cracks into the existing pattern after we repair them, so you've got something that looks like you spent money to do a home improvement and not just a home repair. That makes it more valuable financially and aesthetically.

Gwen Kunkel and brother Paul Randall of New Castle Artisan

Why do you use polymer cements?

Our polymer cements are the best alternative for exterior projects because they resist erosion. Applied properly, they do not peel, flake or delaminate. They are absorbed into the existing concrete, grow spines that expand creating a new cement surface that is incredibly durable as well as stain and chemical resistant.

How much experience do you have?

We've been doing projects for 28 years in the South Jersey area.

How long does your work last?

Resurfacing has been around since the 1960s. It is not new technology but I have personally had jobs down for over 25 years in South Jersey. We offer a two-year warranty that can be extended. If the bond is done properly, it will last a lifetime with some routine resealing maintenance.

You also resurface pool decks. How cost effective is that?

The cost to rip out and replace a pool deck is usually considerably more than resurfacing. Being that most pools are located in the backyard, just the concrete can cost up to 35 percent more because they have to wheelbarrow it in, which is labor intensive.

Will it ruin my landscaping or grass?

No. As a matter of fact, aside from it being beautiful, you wouldn't even know we were there. You don't have to take down any fences. We don't use any heavy equipment. Everything we bring is carried in and carried out, so your landscaping looks exactly the same.

Can you tell me about your flooring solutions for garages, basements and shower rooms?

Polymer cements are good interior options because they're highly durable and water resistant, which is great for basements and garages. Our products are applied by hand for a unique artistic touch that can be customized however you would like. We offer various styles from simple solid color flooring to textured finishes comparable to brick or natural stone.

What about your fireplace services and accent walls?

In the winter when we cannot be outside resurfacing exteriors, we do like to take on fireplace and accent wall projects. In as little as one day, we can transform an old brick fireplace to look like a beautiful stone custom centerpiece for your home. The same with our accent walls that can be designed to match existing decor or we can create a new style completely. H&H

Got Weeds?

Solutions to winning the battle over these unwanted guests

by Michael Pasquarello, Degreed Landscape Architect, Elite Landscaping

By definition, “a weed is a plant held to have no value, especially one growing plentifully and detrimentally in a garden, lawn, etc.” The sole purpose of their life cycle is to grow, produce seed, and spread as quickly as possible. Weeds have mastered this art by setting up residence basically anywhere and ensuring the continuation of their species. The solution to keeping them at bay is not as daunting a task as typically believed. Even a novice gardener can keep their landscape virtually weed free if the following steps are continually adhered to.

The first and most important step is to make sure there is proper mulch coverage throughout the landscape beds. A minimum of 2-to-3 inches should be maintained at all times to block out any sunlight to the soil and weed seeds below. Mulch is an organic material and will decay over time, creating soil and an ideal medium for weed growth. Yearly evaluation (typically in early spring) of mulch depth should be conducted to ensure a 2-to-3 inch coverage. Excessive buildup may also occur over the years causing adverse reactions from the landscape plants and should be reduced accordingly. If done properly, a ½-1 inch addition of fresh mulch yearly should be all that is needed to prevent weeds and keep a clean, fresh appearance.

The use of pre-emergents in combination with the mulching practices mentioned above will deliver an even more effective deterrent to weed growth. A pre-emergent targets the actual seed before it has had a chance to germinate by blocking a key enzyme necessary to the process. Established weeds must be removed prior as a pre-emergent will have no effect on them. It is best to apply prior to yearly mulching as it will create a distinct barrier between soil below and mulch above. Pre-emergents, if applied correctly, can be effective for three months, so an additional summer application may be necessary. This can be spread directly over the mulch as it will break down with watering and make its way to the soil layer below.

It is inevitable that some weeds will still get past and overcome these defenses, so post-emergent solutions will need to be utilized. If the good, old-fashioned, on-your-hands-and-knees pulling way is not appealing then there are many herbicides and organic options to eradicate them. Whether your weapon of choice is Roundup or an organic alternative composed of acidics and oils, be sure to avoid any adjacent ornamental plants. Many of these applications are systemic and will be absorbed in the leaves and transported throughout the plant and root. The only disadvantage of the post-emergent solution is the abundance of weed carcasses left behind. A weed graveyard almost looks as bad as they do alive.

Landscape fabric is another viable option but has its limitations. It should only be used under inorganic landscape coverings such as stone or rubber mulch. The reason for not using fabric under organic wood mulch was already mentioned—wood decays. It’s this decomposition which will eventually create a soil layer on top of the fabric providing weeds a place to set up shop. The roots will also attach to the fabric making them difficult to remove. As long as the inorganics are free from any silts or soil the landscape fabric will work great and last for many years.

Weeds will always find their way into our landscapes and prove to be a tough opponent in this never-ending battle. It’s developing a continued regimen that will limit their presence and allow you to enjoy your landscape and not have to be a slave to it. H&H
